2 DAYS to ELECTION DAY!

Rev. Dr. Carlyle Fielding Stewart, III Endorses Eric Coleman

"I have always known Eric Coleman to be a man of great vision, passion, a deep and abiding commitment to serving the community and a person exemplifying the rare quality of moral courage. I have known Eric for over twenty years and remember his early days of service on the Southfield School Board. As an Oakland County Commissioner, he is a tireless worker, a man of integrity, an advocate for truth, equality and justice and has proven himself to be a serious public servant of enduring value and worth.

The Roman statesman Seneca once observed, "Fire is the true test of gold, adversity of strong men." His quality leadership has stood the tests of time and he has surely experienced his share of adversity.

Needed more than ever in the Michigan House of Representatives is leadership of character and resolve with the will to uphold government of the people, by the people and for the people; men and women who will vouchsafe the public's trust and do the people's business. With sterling leadership more precious than gold, Eric Coleman is undoubtedly that man who will serve the people well. I highly and enthusiastically support his candidacy. "
